MEMORANDUM

TO: John Barrett
FROM: SA Michael S. Foster MF
DATE: July 8, 1992
RE: Gene Wheaton

Per your request, I returned the telephone call of Wheaton, (714) 956-0987, on June 26, 1992.

Wheaton advised that he is a federal court-appointed private investigator who worked with the public defender on the Arif Durrani case. During the course of investigating the Durrani case, Wheaton was involved in depositions of several Geomiltech individuals, including Barbara Studley, John Singlaub, Ron S. Harel, Louis Petrillo and Bruce Herbert.

These interviews revealed that Geomiltech was involved in arms sales to Iran beginning in 1984 and on into 1985. This supports Durrani's defense that he was involved in a government-authorized arms selling activity.

Wheaton also stated that Durrani is currently in the Deportation Center in Oakdale, Louisiana and the U.S. authorities are ready to deport him back to Pakistan.

Durrani's court-appointed attorney is Bill Bloss of New Haven, Connecticut, (203) 772-3100. The presiding judge is U.S. District Judge T.F. Daly, District of Connecticut, in Bridgeport. Durrani's Criminal Case Number is B-86-59 and his Civil Case Number is B-90-090. Wheaton does not believe

Wheaton Milton Gene

Bloss is adequately defending Durrani. Bloss has not submitted all of these revealing depositions to the court.

I told Wheaton that we would be interested in seeing the depositions he mentioned and that I would review them and compare them with information we have in our office. Wheaton indicated he would send this material to me. A 302 of my interview with Wheaton will follow.

On July 6, 1992 I received a package of material from Wheaton, including recent depositions of Studley and Singlaub.

Richard Melton, Director of the Office of Central American and Panamanian Affairs, was reinterviewed on 7/14/87. He had no special knowledge of diversion to the Contras. He did state that North had recommended haulers to handle shipments of aid for NHAO. (U)

On 7/13/87, Jim Michel, U. S. Department of State (State), advised Ambassador Duemling opposed the employment of Rob Owen by NAHO. Duemling was concerned over who Owen would respond to and would he play by the rules. NHAO made Owen a supplier of services to UNO. Michel did not remember Oliver North telling Duemling to hire Owen. (U)

Michel's understanding of the Boland Amendment, was that all of State was covered by it. Michel never refused comment when someone asked him a question pertaining to Boland but would recommend State's Office of Legal Adviser be queried. (U)

Otto Reich was interviewed on 7/16/87, and advised he was head of OPD from 7/83 to 1/86. (U)

There were many complaints of the Administration not getting its message out on Latin America and OPD was created to answer these complaints. (U)

Frank Gomez was hired by OPD to write issue papers on Latin America because of his expertise in the area. At the end of 1984 Gomez came to Reich and told him he was forming a company with Richard Miller called International Business Communications (IBC) and would like to continue his contractual relationship with OPD. (U)

OPD had three contracts with IBC which were more of the same as Gomez's contracts. Each contract was a continuation and expansion of the previous one. The reason Reich used IBC was because he wanted to keep OPD's staff small because he felt it was more productive and felt OPD got its money worth out of the contracts. (U)

Preliminary review of North's travel vouchers indicate that North was paying for airline tickets with BAC International Bank traveler checks (supplied by Aldolpho Calero) and then claiming the airline ticket expense on his personal travel voucher.

The review of North's travel vouchers was prompted by the inspection of the BAC International Bank Traveler checks to Kardon, Milton Case

RE: FLOW OF FUNDS

given to North by Calero. Review of the checks noted several payments to Pan American Airways by North. North like all other Federal employees should use the appropriate government agency airline ticket office or government travel requests (GTRs) to pay for air travel.

Two travel vouchers have been reviewed where traveler checks were used to purchase airline tickets. In both instances North listed excuses on his voucher for purchasing tickets with cash. On one travel voucher North claimed he lost a ticket and had to purchase a ticket with cash. A more detailed review of the travel vouchers will be conducted in the next two weeks.

Review of BAC Traveler checks to date has noted $1,700 in checks being spent with various airlines. North was also using the travelers checks when he was traveling in Europe. It is assumed that North used this money to pay for his hotel and meal expenses in London and Frankfurt. North has cashed at least $1,500 in traveler's checks while in Europe.

The Financial Management Division of the White House has been contacted and requested to provide all check numbers on North's expense checks. The U.S. Treasury will be requested to supply the original expense checks.

INTERVIEWS CONDUCTED:

Milton Gene Wheaton was interviewed on 7/13/87, in Washington, D. C. Wheaton is a former police officer and retired U. S. Army officer. He currently is an independent consultant for various private industry and Government contracts. One client is the Christic Institute of Washington, D. C.

Referred

In 1985 Wheaton became Vice President of National Air Cargo Company, out of Louisville, Kentucky, and Riverside, California. It operated a fleet of CASA 212 cargo aircraft. In Spring of 1985, Wheaton was introduced to Robert Owen and Vaughn Forrest in the office of Congressman McCullom of the 5th District of Florida by William Brode and Nestor Pino. Forrest was Administrative Assistant to Congressman McCullom, Brode was Special Assistant to Under Secretary of State for Security Assistance, Science and Technology and Pino was a Colonel in the U. S. Army who had been involved in the Bay of Pigs invasion. Wheaton was informed by many contacts that Owen was Oliver North's outside man regarding dealings with the Contras and Adolpho Calero and would have to do business with Owen involving the Contras. In the summer of 1985 Wheaton submitted a proposal to Owen for Wheaton's company to haul $27 million of humanitarian aid authorized by Congress to the Contras. When Wheaton learned that Hakim and Secord were involved with Owen, he informed Owen and Forrest they should not be associated with those two because they were crooks. (U)

W. Keith Miller Case

CHANNELL GROUP

On July 7, 1987 a strategy meeting was held at the Office of Independent Counsel (OIC) for members of team Channell. Team Channell consists of the following members: SA's [REDACTED], [REDACTED], IRS Special Agent [REDACTED] and Associate Counsels David Zornow and Michael Bromwich.

Investigation by team Channell has resulted in the convictions of Carl Channell and Richard Miller for conspiracy to defraud the United States, Title 18 USC 371. The basis of the conspiracy to which Channell and Miller plead was that they had conspired to defraud the U.S. by intentionally subverting and corrupting the proper purposes of a non-profit tax-exempt organization exempted under 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, (i.e. the National Endowment for the Preservation of Liberty (NEPL)) in violation of Title 26, USC 7206 (2), (3). The U.S. was defrauded and the Treasury of the United States was deprived of revenue to which it was entitled by efforts of the named and unnamed co-conspirators to induce contributions for NEPL on the false representation that such contributions would be tax-deductible when, in truth, the contributions were not deductible since they were to be used for a non-deductible purpose, namely, to purchase of lethal and other types of non-humanitarian aid for the Contras.

It had been clear from the outset of the investigation that Lieutenant Colonel North had been instrumental in efforts by Channell to induce contributions for direct military assistance to the Contras. In order to indict North as a coconspirator in the conspiracy, however, it must be shown that North had the requisite intent to subvert and corrupt the lawful purpose of a non-profit organization exempt from taxation under IRS regulation, i.e. NEPL. Knowledge by North that NEPL was an exempt organization under 501(c)(3) by itself may not be sufficient to show that North intended to use such organization unlawfully for the purpose of obtaining monies for direct military assistance to the Contras. What has been lacking so far in the investigation of North has been direct evidence of North's knowledge that solicitations for direct military assistance to the Contras through a tax-exempt organization would be unlawful. In an attempt to establish North's knowledge the following investigation shall be conducted:

PROJECTED INTERVIEWS

1. Walter Raymond, NSC.
2. Roger Fontaine, formerly of the NSC.
3. Reinterview of John Roberts, formerly of White House Liaison Office.

Walter Raymond Miller Case

4. Mitch Daniels, former member of Don Regan's staff.
5. Curt Herge, attorney representing Carl Channell, with respect to memo prepared by Herge on the legality of privately funding the Contras in relation to the Boland Amendment.
6. Interview of White House Counsel who may have provided North with legal advice on soliciting private contributions for the Contras and tax-exempt organizations.
7. Review of at least 14 boxes of miscellaneous material (binders, newspaper articles, publications, etc.) obtained from North's office and secured at the NEOB. The materials may contain newspaper articles which appeared in the press in mid-1985 and later, which indicated that General Singlaub's organization, U.S. Council for World Freedom, (USCWF) a 501(c)(3), was disallowed by the IRS from soliciting funds for military and lethal assistance to the Contras.
8. Evaluation of Rob Owen's testimony in lieu of his recent grant of immunity. Owen appears to provide the direct evidence, which hereto was lacking in the proposed indictment of North. Owen reportedly has stated that in a conversation with North in 1984, Owen advised North that it was impermissible for a tax-exempt organization to solicit contributions for military aid.

PROPOSED INVESTIGATION OF THE IRS

A linchpin in the Title 26 Conspiracy theory is that contributions to a tax-exempt organization for direct military or lethal aid are non-deductible and impermissible under IRS regulations. It follows, therefore, that solicitations of contributions for the purchase of military or other lethal aid for the Contras, and representations that these contributions would be tax-deductible would be fraudulent.

Prior to accepting pleas from Channell and Miller a review of applicable IRS regulations indicated that contributions for purchases of military or lethal equipment for the Contras would not be tax-deductible since such contributions would not fall within the broad meaning of a "charitable contribution." After receiving pleas from Miller and Channell, Associate Counsels Zornow and Bromwich were informed by high ranking officials of the IRS of the IRS' deep reservations with the legal theory propounded in the guilty pleas of Channell and Miller. According to the IRS officials, their review of appropriate IRS regulations and law indicated that contributions for purchases of lethal aid for the Contras could conceivably be considered permissible and tax-deductible under a broad interpretation of the meaning of "charitable contribution."

W. K. Kaden, Miller Case

The IRS' current waffling on the question of the permissibility of tax-deductibility of lethal aid is perplexing and very damaging to a possible indictment of North. Associate Counsels Bromwich and Zornow have had follow-up meetings with IRS officials, but the IRS continues to cast dispersion on the OIC theory that contributions for lethal aid are non-deductible and impermissible under IRS regulations. IRS further asserted that the lethal deductibility question had not been addressed by the IRS in the recent past. Yet investigation by the OIC has determined that as early as 1982 the IRS required assurances from General Singlaub's tax-exempt organization, USCWF that the organization would not be involved in providing arms, cash or military supplies to foreign revolutionaries or actions that would violate the U.S. Neutrality Law. Further investigation has determined that tax-exempt status had been granted in as little as five (5) days to organizations in support of the Nicaraguan Refugees and Freedom Fighters in Nicaragua. Granting of tax-exempt status to an organization generally takes a great deal of time, and it appears that some intervention must have been made with the IRS to circumvent the normal procedure for these organizations. A review of documents in North's office indicates that North was intimately involved with a number of 501(c)(3) organizations and may have been involved in the creation of at least one organization, the Nicaraguan Freedom Fund. Although it may be premature to assume that the IRS had been involved in efforts to assist North or the White House in efforts to aid the Contras, information which has already been developed indicates that further investigation is warranted.
